

BPI - Heating Professional

Norbert Muller, Home Performance Training, an affiliate organization of the Building Performance Institute (BPI), will bring BPI-authorized training to Southern New Jersey specifically for contractors seeking BPI specialty certification.

Norbert Muller was a successful Account Manager for five years in the NY Home Performance with ENERGY STAR® program. He offers BPI certification exams and training to build the skills needed to satisfy required areas of testing.

When: Monday 21 Sep thru Thursday 24 Sep 2009

8:00 am – 5:00 pm Light Breakfast and Lunch provided by Green Grille

Where: Energy Freedom Pioneers Eco-Industrial Park (Bldg 322)

300 Route 130, Pedricktown NJ 08067-0420 (six miles south of Commodore Barry Bridge)

Why: This is an intermediate building science course specific to achieving a BPI specialty certification. It is designed to help heating professionals understand heating systems and their interaction with other building systems. You will learn measurement and verification of building performance with specific emphasis on the building's heating system and how to optimize the system(s) accordingly. BPI Building Analyst certification, Building Analyst training and/or equivalent experience is strongly recommended. In addition, heating experience is highly recommended.
